

JOSHUA ABELOW

H-MAN POEMS (2009 – 2025)

A Giant
09.2009

When you turn your back on everything familiar a giant appears and feeds you little mangos.

walk around the city 03.2010

walk around
the city feeling lonely

but ever since he met her

it's walk around
the city
feeling
lonelier

The Man with Black Arms
04.2010

A sad and foolish man gathered all his shirts and pants and stuffed them in the sink and filled it up with warm water and black dye. Then he stirred everything with a pretty wooden mallet. He stirred and stirred for a long, long time. He stirred so much that his arms fell off. They splashed into the warm water along with the clothing and the black dye. There was nothing the man could do, but stand there and wonder why his arms were no longer attached to his body. There didn't seem to be an explanation. He went into shock and fainted. In his sleep the man was happy again. He was filled with love. The man still had his arms. He ran around waving them in the sky like two kites. Many days and nights passed. Eventually, the man woke up and walked over to where the bad incident had occurred. He peered down into the sink. Everything was black, including his arms.

lazy
04.2010

I woke up so late that
the day got up
and went to work without me

sore winner 05.2010

nothing
is
the matter but I'm still going
to kill
you

fish chatter 05.2010

today when I woke up
I decided it was better
to go back to bed.
now
it's 2:33 in the afternoon.
later when I wake up again I'll walk across the bridge and look down at the river.
you can hear the fish chattering about this and that as you pass over them.

all she wrote 05.2010

a room
is a walk
is a meal
is a poem
is all
she wrote

true love 06.2010

there is nothing I'd rather do than sit
in a room
and dream
of killing
you

goat 06.2010

I dropped off
the news
at the laundromat and forgot to pick it up

Now
I smoke cigarettes in peace
and gaze up at a red moon pretending to be an angry goat

alone 06.2010

every night we made it

last until
the light
came
in through pulled curtains

in my simple
room

oh
why
oh
why

did
you
go back
to
New York

without
me?

ritual 06.2010

sit in the sun

walk in the rain

undress in my room

and

roll in the hay

we roll around
like

big wavy lines

bad day 06.2010

everyday
is not a poem
or a painting
or a drawing

some days are just days

and some days
are worse than that

stay in bed 07.2010

stay in bed
and sleep all day

yea
I think I will no more light

no more dust balls

no more hairs magically appearing on the bathroom floor day after day after
day

like they own the place

dead waves 07.2010

we watched waves commit suicide
all day
but they didn't make us the least bit sad angry
or resentful

little room 08.2010

crowded streets smelly smells
busy people with their fancy dogs you need a quiet place to sit and think a little room to plot your revenge

Big Mouth
08.2010

Of
course
I can see the mountain and the lake. They're as big as your mouth.

Flipper
08.2010

Dakotah
flipped
the bird
to
New York.

Then
she went to Vermont
to flip burgers.

Now
she's flipping out.

Great Job
11.2010

Ten years ago
I went to Washington DC to see an exhibit by an artist named Gober at a fancy museum.

I went in and said to myself, "It looks great."

Oddly enough, I was recently offered a job painting the vestibule at Gober's place in the East Village.

Five hours into it
Gober came out.

He said, "Did you paint these walls?"

I said, "Yes."

He said, "It looks great."

so long lady cardboard 12.2010

to day
he cut
her
up with sharp scissors
to place
in a brown
box
to ship
out
to morrow

weird room 12.2010

there's nothing
half normal
or even one quarter
normal
in your weird
room

Selfish Rusty
02.2011

It was the day before Valentine's Day.
Rusty called me up.
She said, "I wrote you a poem."
I said, "Great, read it to me."
She said,
"Not now."
Valentine's Day
came and went and still there was no poem.
I called Rusty up and said, "What happened?"
She said,
"I decided to keep it for myself."

mirror 06.2011

riding
my bike

in your black dress

on our silver
night

it
was you

on our silver
night

in your
black
dress

riding
my
bike

afternoon sun 12.2011

jump
out
the window

follow
her
as she turns
her
back
on you
and disappears

just like
she did yesterday

and
the
day before

very sick 12.2011

in a patch of light by the window
he lay down and looked at the potted plant and that's all he looked at dirty socks 12.2012

an envelope arrived which contained
a letter

with words

that smelled
like
dirty socks

nobody needs these dirty socks
the man thought
as he read
the letter

these words
are stinking
up
the place

he said under his breath

he
was
the type
of man who understood
the difference between clean socks
and dirty socks

he tossed
the letter
in
the garbage can then

he made himself something
to eat

doomed relationship 12.2012

it's
just
the noise
of a train
in
the night
going
someplace
we are not

21st Century solitude
06.2012

21st Century
solitude
is not like
the solitude
of yesteryear –

21st Century
solitude is bigger
has a much clearer picture quality and is also significantly more durable

spring chicken 07.2012

You'll always be my spring chicken,
even
in
the fall.

blonde cat 01.2013

in
the morning before
work

she looks
at her reflection
in
the mirror

she looks like
a blonde cat

she's out 02.2013

I am in her bed and it is so very, very quiet –

I hear nothing but the sound of one car going by in the distance
over and over.

computer poem 04.2013

it's so great sitting here
at my desk-

it's like swimming

it's like napping
in
the afternoon sun

it's like throwing
a stick
at your head

hot poem 07.2013

It was very hot so we went to the water to cool
off.

Afterward,
we lay down in the sun like two fish washed up on shore to die.

running man 11.2013

run toward the sun

into its squiggly rays
you
go

run into the black iridescent
sun

stay in there as time goes by

Thursday poem
12.2013

I sit alone
at the kitchen
table.

I sip
black coffee from my favorite red mug.

I am reminded
of girls I've known as I look out the window at the cold
day.

The day is as cold as all their hands.

Cape Cod
07.2014

The sky
sagged down like a big wet rag
as I walked past tiny cottages thinking
of my dead
grandmother.

38
09.2014

38 years neatly pressed into the shape of a man sitting on a chair
alone
in a darkened
room

wrong girl 02.2015

turn on the television

sit on the couch

stare at the screen

it's better than her kiss

clear path 05.2015

the screen is illuminated it is the middle of the night and

the screen is illuminated

it's lit up like an incandescent moon showing a clear path

I can see the image – a neon silhouette with squiggles inside
of it

it's getting dimmer as she walks away

normal thoughts 11.2015

There must be an interesting program on the television, but he is too tired to go upstairs and turn it
on.

So, in a dark room,
he sits and thinks
normal thoughts.

São Paulo
12.2015

insects
eating me alive

loving the taste of beer and cigarettes

as I disappear

yellow dress 12.2015 yellow

dress

*

yes

*

I like her

*

yellow

dress

*

yes

*

yes

*

yes

*

yellow

dress

cute maniac 12.2015

He got up and looked at her.

She looked like a maniac.

She looked exactly like a cute
maniac.

beach poem 01.2016

saltwater sounds and shapes
dance like moonlight on happy fish it is a new year

this is a beach
poem

nighttime 01.2016

It's nighttime again –

I wonder what she's doing.

cold poem
01.2016

It's cold.

It's cold.

It's cold.

Nobody is doing anything because it's too cold.

And, she's cold
too.

She's as cold
as a footprint in the snow.

poem for C 02.2016

it may not appear
this way at first but, you've got to trust

me

for this is a bouquet of Los Angeles flowers (Queen Anne's Lace)

I got them for you because I love
you

long walk 2 02.2016

not much happening

went on a long
walk

saw an old tree with dead brown leaves by the side of the road

the sun
went down
as I walked
back

not much
happening

red door 08.2016

in my church

*

I turn
my head

*

inside
out

*

the door is red

plumb
09.2016

I look young
Alas, I am old

I look old
Alas, I am young

I write a poem
Alas, it is dumb

I like you
You are my plumb

Thanksgiving poem
11.2016

It's lonely and it's only November.

LUXURY
12.2016

One upon a wallet
there was no money

my dad is dead 04.2017

my dad is dead

he died at home next to his wife and his mother and his two dogs he was 68 years old

we had our differences

To be titled 04.2017

Hello?

Hello.

Is anybody home?

Yes.

May I come in?

No.

Why not?

I'm not available today.

sorry
05.2017

I'm not romantic

I don't have feelings

I don't have romantic feelings for you

Ridge Street
08.2017

in her room there is a mattress on the floor

the light is on and there are three cats

I ask her to please turn off the light and get rid of the cats

she turns off the light but the cats stay we go to sleep

I am Abelow
02.2018

in side
the cha pel,

I am Abelow

42.
07.2018

Amsterdam, Berlin, Paris...

Rachel went out of town until mid-August.

*

Back home, the dog runs in the green grass.

Soon I will be

42.

frozen divorce 03.2018

the winter
sun
is
as cold
as a lonely
snowman
in
the middle
of a storm
that looks like
a frozen divorce

San Francisco
03.2019

Like a comet,
I am falling down

To earth

With love and affection

For the cats of San Francisco.

Middle age
01.2019

it was after midnight
the wind razor sharp.

she said,

"go outside and look up at the blood red moon."

she said,

"a blood red moon doesn't appear every day."

it was
after midnight
the wind razor sharp.

he stayed in bed.

borrowed poem 05.2019

borrowed shoes, pants, shirt, hat borrowed country road in the afternoon borrowed sunshine on the back of my neck borrowed birds and dandelions and bungalows borrowed cigarette borrowed walk borrowed everything

pixelated tornado 06.2019

there is a pixelated tornado blowing through the forest

now the trees look like store fronts, traffic jams, and pedestrians birds are chirping like dump trucks backing up and honking automobiles are crashing into antiquated computers

New York
06.2019

Damn, Rome—
I miss you.

I know 07.2019

it's late but sometimes peeing in the grass
when nobody's around is better than fucking

Missing Mush
08.2019

Dear Mush,

I
miss
you.

I'm
not lying.

Summer Poem (for Rachel) 08.2019

When you smile, the sky Bright Blue.

Bumblebees
and hummingbirds return.

swing dancing
08.2019

No husband, no wife, no kids, no dog, no cat, no goldfish, etc.

Just this church.

All I hear
are the dead
swing dancing
in the graveyard
out back.

September Poem
09.2019

Today
was dressed up like a man in very plain clothes.

happy
09.2019

happy
sunrays jump
like bright yellow frogs in the lily pond of my universe...

boy,
she sure looks beautiful in California.

chicken soup 12.2019

the poem years
are behind me
now

grocery shopping my way into old age

chicken soup
is youth on a cold
day

moon 12.2019

let's have an art show on the moon

ok?

Bending the Knee
02.2020

Knocked down in the City of Angels...

At the top of Centennial Street, looking down at the defeated silhouettes of tall buildings lying on their backs.

If only we were happy like we were in the beginning 02.2020

She made me dinner:
A Portobello Mushroom Burger
on an unhappy bun.

I washed it down with a tall glass of cucumber water and plenty of miserable electrolytes.

I miss Mush.
09.2020

When Mush wears that green suit
I say, "Mush, you look like a Leprechaun."

Mush looks at me with cold eyes and says, "You don't know anything about fashion."

I miss Mush.

a talking butterfly
10.2020

Yes, she was a talking butterfly.

"I love you," is what the butterfly said many times.

It wasn't until much later when the leaves had fallen down to the cold ground that the man discovered the talking butterfly was a very good liar.

65 degrees in November– 11.2020

we haven't talked since October 21st.

65 degrees in November–

a beautiful
day
for a long country drive

if the dog wasn't dead we would've brought her
along

Tired 12.2020

I'm so tired
of everything

I'm so tired
of everything

I'm so tired
of everything

They say

I'm so tired
of everything

They do

I'm so tired
of their art

I'm so tired
of their scene

*

I'm so tired
of everything

I'm so tired
of everything

I'm so tired
of everything

You say

I'm so tired
of everything

You do

I'm so tired
Of your art

I'm so tired
of your scene

nostalgic future 12.2020

It's 10pm
Do you know who your children
are?

the tender-hearted lobster 02.2021

remember when we ate
the tender-hearted lobster?

childhood 02.2021

ah, to be in the city

any city

just take me away from these goddamn cornfields disoriented 04.2021

maybe it's the drugs or maybe it isn't the drugs because I don't do drugs

Beach Observations
06.2021

a fish above the bed staring out the window a dragonfly on the table slowly moving toward death children singing in the waves a woman's feet in the sand
two ships on the horizon another woman wearing sunglasses
a straw hat covering her face as she sits with her back to the inflatable llama.

& & &
07.2021

sometimes I think

of my dead
dog

&

your crazy eyes

&

although my dog is dead

your eyes are still crazy

&

the rooster
crows

thunder 07.2021

the thunder is cracking a smile as the sky opens up its mouth to yell

plein air poem 07.2021

see the bunny
in the grass?

it's telling you to go fuck yourself

self-portrait as a lobster 07.2021

woke up boiled

alive

for nobody in particular 07.2021

all
those years of disappointment

AND you were still pretty great

smirk
08.2021

upstairs
talking about art making sculptures and drinking beer and whiskey and whatever else doing coke alone at 3am and not coming down– stairs until 3pm the next day and being extremely grumpy with a smirk

he makes coffee and looks out the window

45
09.2021

45 miles off shore
a seagull just gave this poem a bad review incoming message 09.2021

a good time down in Maryland,
the place we are from

two UFOs caught in a lightning storm

a good time down in Maryland,
the place we are from

not talking 10.2021

Sometimes
I don't talk to people just so I will remember how it feels to miss them

The World's Best Worms
10.2021

2
empty tin cans waiting to be filled up with The World's Best Worms 1 more
time

Trust Fall
11.2021

Trust in me

Trust in you

Jump into the air

Fall through the sky

*

Trust in me

Trust in you

Trust in your mom

Trust in your dad

They know what's best

*

Trust in me

Trust in you

Stand with your hands on your hips

In God We Trust

It feels so good

*

Trust in me

Trust in you

tobacco 01.2022

tobacco.
haven't touched the stuff in over a year.
am I dying?

poem with no electricity 01.2022

people many artists among them going through this life with the lights off
upstairs

church poem 05.2022

alive
in quiet rooms with that cemetery in the window
is better than
ice cream

inchworm 07.2022

the inchworm
wearing a black top hat danced in the golden grass at the edge of the world neighborhood children were jumping screaming and doing back flips the lifeguard who looked like a Greek statue smoked cigarettes in his chair and occasionally said

"RELAX"

Sculpture
10.2022

The city is destroying you.

It's taking all those cigarettes You smoked in the cornfield back home...
Sculpting them into the form of a plane.

And soon you'll be on that plane Flying back to your cornfield To sculpt a new plane...
Bringing you back Again.

Nobody Told Me
01.2023

Creaky nighttime sounds, loneliness all around.

Rats flying out of the chimney and bats running alongside the field mice.

She looked so frightened when she fell to the ground.

don't write a poem 02.2023

don't write a poem
that uses the phrase

these days

mirrors on the ceiling 03.2023

Once upon a time
there was a very wealthy...

Oh, never mind, you already know this one.

Page 4 (August 18, 2021) 06.2023

Katya made a self-portrait described as “a sad, vulnerable drawing.”

That cheered me up.

Princess
06.2023

One dog is old and one dog is young. The young dog isn't very bright.
He pees on himself or on the floor and then licks it up. The sun is out. August is nearly over.

beach observations 2 06.2023

bugs in the marsh
shark fins just off shore Manhattans in the jacuzzi at noon a very large plate of lamb chops on the dinner table colorful aliens made out of clay battle the forces of good & evil

July in Massachusetts
07.2023

the rain outside
was the best part of being in bed together

Poem as non-idea (July 4th, 2023) 07.2023

the poem-train came to a screeching halt

upon exiting, I wrote this down

seaside poem 07.2023

in the little house by the sea wind strums my toes, button-up shirt
ajar unrooted trees
float in black waves smashing just outside

Maria
07.023

draw a little poem paint a little song
have a meeting in the dark a long time ago

47

09.2023

The days are longer

The poems are shorter

The kid's in 3rd grade

The Sad Conclusion of an LA Story 10.2023

the palm trees are dying

it's time to go home now

4 Letter Words
10.2023

Ache
Book
Clog
Dumb
Easy
Flop
Game
Hate Idea
Joke
Kiss
Leak
Meat Neat
Oral
Pool
Quit
Rope
Slop
Type
Ugly Vain
Wavy
Xeno
Yoke
Zero

vanish 02.2024

on the ol' highway of my imagination there was a surprising thud

poof, I vanished

Mr. Round's Unfulfilled Wish 06.2024

Mr. Round dreamed of a perfect corner, Just a simple place to take a break From his circular Thoughts.

H-Man
06.2024

have you ever given up something so fucking wonderful it takes your entire sense of self and lights it on fire?

Wyoming
08.2024

We met a moose today.
Turns out,
His name was Steve.

Halloween Poem in August 08.2024

I'd rather trick-or-treat coming home with a bag of vegetables than spend another night out here in the wild wilderness of your absence.

Poem with Honors
08.2024

This poem
just graduated with honors from the University of Boring Poems and Pretentious Assholes

15 minutes before turning 48 09.2024

In bed,
Katya beside me

She's about to be completely asleep, not knowing what I'm doing

I'm watching a documentary on Mary Heilmann for the 2nd time this week

I like Mary's paintings even though she gave up drugs in 1983

crooked lines on my forehead, hair thinning & turning white

My paintings are better than they used to be (if you don't agree, FUCK YOU)

I take my time with them because the materials are so expensive

Just like our groceries

But,
I'm still here

A month from now
I'll be hitched

So long, suckers

American Fine Arts, Co.
09.2024

They're eating the dogs, the people that came in, they're eating the cats.
They're eating, they're eating the pets of the people that live there.

honeymoon poem 10.2024

every time
you flush paper down a Greek toilet (accidentally or on purpose) another cat is born on Hydra

Love Letter
01.2025

Empty
suburban neighborhoods, I love you so

Closed front doors, dirty windows so limitless with uninviting splendor

I'd like to be the car parked in your driveway going nowhere—not now, not ever

AI
03.2025

Nobody likes you your work is terrible give up already and get a real job